THEME OF THE SEMINAR

The contemporary Indian social reality is exhibiting a challenging task for all intelligent and sensitive minds, a serious thought on the gravity of the socio-economic scenario. India, after 70 years of independence, needs to estimate its social achievements in terms of the peoples aspirations of the freedom movement. It gives rise to a perplexing and doubtful answer. Many attempts have been made to assess the change that has taken place after independence by governments and as well as different concerned individuals, academicians and researchers in India and abroad.

The Indian social reality after the Liberalization, Privatization and Globalization has further made more interesting progress to capture the emerging changes that are disturbing in terms of growing inequalities. Keeping the kind of pattern of development over a period of long time has generated volumes of knowledge, but looking from the perspective of Dr.B. R.Ambedkar will bring a new dimension and yield a fresh perspectives on the peoples aspirations in the existing socio-political reality.

Ambedkar's concerns and vision for the oppressed and the marginalized sections emphasized and recognized the need for inclusion of these sections' economic agenda in the process of socio-economic development. It has a great bearing and relevance in the present context of recognizing, reiterating faster and inclusive growth as the thrust and aim of the 11th & 12th Five Years Plans shows Ambedkar's keen observation and understanding of the marginalized sections in our Contemporary India.

In this context, the Department of Political Science of Dr. V. S. Krishna Govt. Degree College (A) Visakhapatnam initiates a discussion among the likeminded academic fraternity and feels the need of organizing a seminar to bring these issues for a serious debate and further deliberations for a meaningful academic exercise.
